

Portability of cell phone numbers is a prerequisite to meaningful competition. Individuals cannot shop for new providers offering better pricing without having to change business stationary, directories and notifying contacts.